Foreword

The Exchange Network Leadership Council (ENLC) is a partnership among US EPA, States and Tribal partners to develop and agree upon data standards for environmental information collection and exchange. The Council seeks to promote efficient sharing of environmental information between State, US EPA and Tribal partners through the development of data standards. More information about the ENLC is available at <http://www.exchangenetwork.net/standards>.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

Environmental information is a key tool in the effective management of our environmental resources and human health conditions. As a result, much effort goes into data acquisition, management, maintenance, exchange, and oversight. Greater access is the goal of many data consumers, and data managers. Providers invest significant resources meeting their requirements. In response, many data providers are improving access as they post usable copies of their environmental information on the web. These efforts are a vast improvement over previous conditions; however, there is a growing desire and need to both provide and receive data in a clearly defined and a uniform way. Data from multiple sources can then be aggregated and used without the inherent variations that exist between data sets across agencies.

1.1 Scope

This ENLC standard identifies and defines the major areas of enforcement and compliance information that could be used for the exchange of data among environmental agencies and other entities. The purpose of the standard is to provide a common lexicon, so that information about functionally similar activities and/or instruments can be stored.

1.2 Revision History

Date	Version	Description
April 22, 2002	1-85727:1	Initial adoption by the Environmental Data Standards Council

1.3 References

This standard relies on other standards to make it complete and provide the necessary support. As such users should consider the Normative Standards (references) noted below, integral to the Enforcement and Compliance Data Standard. These include:

- Representation of Date and Time [EX000013.1] Data Standard

1.5 Implementation

Users are encouraged to use the XML registry housed on the Exchange Network Web site (<http://www.exchangenetwork.net>) to download schema components for the construction of XML schema flows. In addition, the Environmental Data Registry (<http://www.epa.gov/edr>) provides the data standard structure and attributes in a downloadable format that will facilitate database development activities.

1.6 Document Structure

The structure of this document is briefly described below:

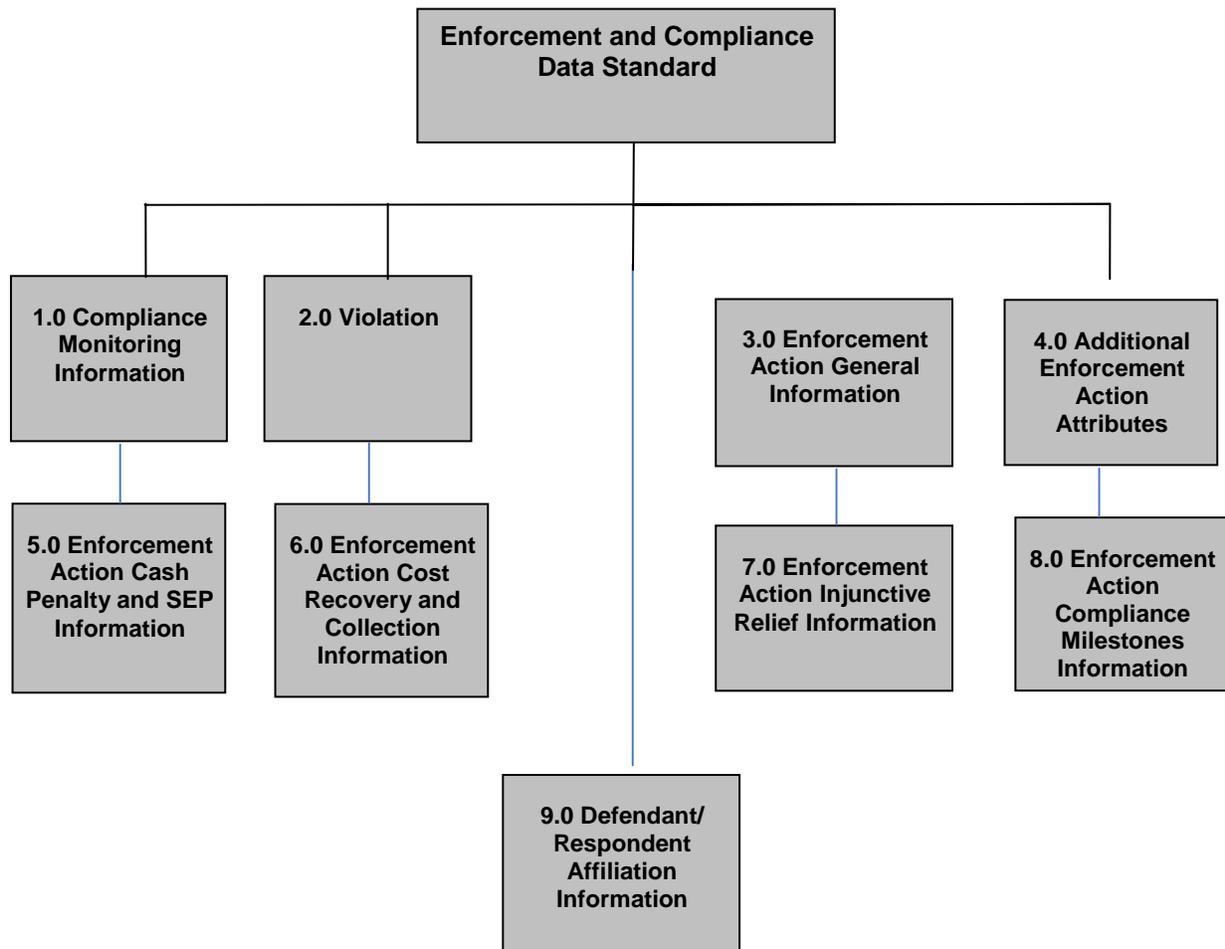

- a. Section 2.0 Enforcement and Compliance Diagram, illustrates the principal data groupings contained within Enforcement and Compliance Data Standard.
- b. Section 3.0 Enforcement and Compliance Data Standards Table, provides information on the high and intermediate levels of Enforcement and Compliance data groupings, as well as their related data elements. Where applicable, for each level of this data standard, a definition, XML tag, note(s), example list of values and format are provided. The format column lists the required number of characters for the associated data element, where "A" specifies alphanumeric, "N" designates numeric, "G" is used for grouping and "D" for time and date elements.
- c. Data Element Numbering. For purposes of clarity and to enhance understanding of data standard hierarchy and relationships, each data group is numerically classified from the primary to the elemental level.
- d. Code and Identifier Metadata: Metadata, defined here as data about data or data elements, includes their descriptions and/or any needed context setting information required to identify the origin, conditions of use, interpretation, or understanding the information being exchanged or transferred. (Adapted from ISO/IEC 2382-17:1999 Information Technology Vocabulary—Part 17: Databases 17.06.05 metadata). Based on the business need, additional metadata may be required to sufficiently describe an identifier or a code. A note regarding this additional metadata is included in the notes column for identifier and code elements. Additional metadata for identifiers may include:
  - Identifier Context, which identifies the source or data system that created or defined the identifier

Additional metadata for codes may include:

- Code List Identifier, which is a standardized reference to the context or source of the set of codes
  - Code List Version Identifier, which identifies the particular version of the set of codes.
  - Code List Version Agency Identifier, which identifies the agency responsible for maintaining the set of codes
  - Code List Name, which describes the corresponding name for which the code represents
- e. Appendix A, Enforcement and Compliance Data Structure Diagram illustrates the hierarchical classification of the Enforcement and Compliance data standard. This diagram enables business and technical users of this standard to quickly understand its general content and complexity.
